

Following print-publication of The International Classification of Headache Disorders, 2nd edition (ICHD-II), a web-based version was developed. This has many facilities that are not present in the printed version or the simple electronic file on this site.

Since a headache classification and the diagnostic criteria for all disorders cannot be learned by heart, it is of immense value that doctors all over the world may find, on the internet, the answer to whatever question they may have regarding ICHD-II.
